Area mourns death of long-time state government official

Farm and government officials and educators are mourning the death of Illinois state Sen. Harry "Babe" Woodyard, who died Friday in Chicago.

Sen. Woodyard, 66, died at 1:25 p.m. Friday following a massive stroke. The Chrisman Republican had been operated on Tuesday at the University of Chicago Medical Center to repair a thoracic aortic aneurysm.

The senator, a farmer and businessman, served eight years in the Illinois House before being appointed to the Senate in 1986. He was chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Conservation Committee from 1993 to 1996 and was named chairman of the Executive Appointments Committee last month. He was also a member of the Appropriations and Revenue committees.

Sen. Woodyard announced in December that he would not seek re-election in 1998, citing health concerns as a reason for his decision.
